

Jeanne Kildow

Immigration Attorney with Borene Law Firm in Minneapolis

She is a native of Minnesota, who graduated Phi Beta Kappa from the University of California at Berkeley with a Bachelor's Degree in Spanish Language and Literature. She received her law degree from the University of California-Hastings College of Law in San Francisco, where she was a George Moscone Scholar. Jeanne is fluent in both Spanish and English.

Jeanne has been on staff with Borene Law Firm for over 20 years, representing individuals, employers, families, health care facilities, physicians, researchers, colleges and universities, and small and large businesses in immigration-related matters. She is a member of the American Immigration Lawyers Association, and she is past Chair of the Immigration Law Section of the Minnesota State Bar Association.

In the past, Jeanne Kildow was on staff with the Mayo Clinic, where she was Mayo's first-ever in-house Immigration Counsel and Director of its International Personnel Office. While on staff at the Mayo Clinic, she advised clinical and research staff and allied health personnel on immigration-related legal matters.

Although Jeanne has practiced exclusively in the area of immigration law for more than two decades, she also has previous legal experience in business law, litigation, and employment law. Prior to law school, she was a paraprofessional in the medical field, and she maintains a life-long interest in healthcare-related matters.

Jeanne lives in rural Chisago County, Minnesota, where she has also handled many volunteer cases over the years through works of service involving her local church members and various international missions.
